The Big Bubble

LITTLE READERS

Mia finds a little bottle.
It is on a shelf at home.
"Bubbles!" she says.

Mia takes the bottle outside.

The sun is warm today.

It is a perfect day to play.

Max follows Mia to the garden.
His tail goes swish, swish.
He wants to play, too.

Mia opens the bubble bottle.
She takes out the little wand.
Max watches her carefully.

Mia dips the wand in the bottle.
She lifts it up slowly.
Now it is ready.

Mia blows through the wand.
A little bubble comes out.
"Look, Max!" she says.

The bubble floats into the air.

It rises above the grass.

Mia follows it with her eyes.

Max looks up at the bubble.

It shines in the sun.

He gives a happy bark.

Mia blows some more bubbles.
One, two, three float away.
They sparkle in the light.

Max runs after the bubbles.

He jumps up to catch one.

Pop! It disappears.

The bubbles float by flowers.
Some go high and some go low.
Max follows them around.

Mia laughs at her puppy.

"You are so silly, Max!"

Max wags his tail.

Mia wants a bigger bubble.

She dips the wand again.

Then she gives a big blow.

A bubble begins to grow.

But pop! It bursts quickly.

Mia looks at the empty wand.

Mia tries once more.

Pop! The bubble bursts again.

She feels disappointed.

Max sits down beside Mia.
He looks up at his friend.
Mia gives him a little pat.

Mia asks Mom for help.
"How can I make a big one?"
she asks.

Mom takes the little wand.

"Dip it slowly," she says.

Mia watches her carefully.

Mia dips the wand slowly.
She lifts it from the bottle.
A thin film covers the wand.

"Now blow gently," says Mom.

She gives Mia a smile.

Mia is ready to try.

Mia takes a little breath.

She blows very gently.

The film begins to stretch.

A big bubble starts to grow.
It gets bigger and bigger.
Max looks up at it.

"Look at that!" says Mia.

The bubble is so big!

She can hardly believe it.

Max watches the big bubble.
It shines above his head.
He stays very still.

The bubble floats away.
It drifts across the garden.
Mia walks after it.

Mia follows the big bubble.

She takes small quiet steps.

She does not want it to pop.

Max follows Mia, too.
He walks beside his friend.
They both watch the bubble.

The bubble floats by flowers.

It passes over the grass.

The breeze carries it along.

The bubble drifts near a tree.

Mia and Max stop to watch.

Where will it go next?

The friends look up carefully.
The bubble moves very slowly.
It is still floating!

The bubble catches the sun.

Mia sees many colors in it.

"It is beautiful," she says.

The bubble floats higher.
It rises above the flowers.
Mia and Max look up.

Pop! The bubble bursts.

It disappears into the air.

Mia blinks in surprise.

"Where did it go?" asks Mia.

She looks at the sky.

The big bubble is gone.

Max gives a playful jump.
He looks ready for more.
Mia laughs at her friend.

"We can make another one!"
says Mia with a smile.
She picks up her wand.

Mia blows more bubbles.
Some are small and some are big.
They float into the sky.

Mom joins Mia in the garden.
She blows a bubble, too.
Mia watches it sparkle.

Max chases the bubbles.
He runs over the soft grass.
Pop! Pop! Pop!

The friends watch the bubbles.
They float in the sunshine.
What a lovely day to play!
