The Cat on the Roof

LITTLE READERS

Mia walks in the garden.

Max trots beside her.

The sun is warm today.

Then Mia hears a little sound.

"Meow! Meow!"

She stops to listen.

Mia looks around the garden.

She looks near the flowers.

Where is the sound coming from?

Max looks up at the shed.

His ears move a little.

Mia looks up, too.

A little cat is on the roof!
It sits on the garden shed.
Its fur is orange and soft.

The cat looks down at Mia.
"Meow," it calls.
Mia waves to the cat.

"Hello, little cat," says Mia.
She speaks in a gentle voice.
The cat watches her.

Max waits beside Mia.
He stays on the grass.
"Good dog," says Mia.

Mia wants to help the cat.
She looks at the low roof.
What should she do?

Mia stays on the ground.
She does not climb the shed.
She has a better idea.

"Mom!" calls Mia.

"Can you come and help?"

Max waits beside her.

Mom comes into the garden.
"What is it?" she asks.
Mia points to the cat.

"The cat is on the roof,"
Mia tells Mom.
"Can we help it down?"

Mom looks at the shed.
She sees the little cat.
"Let us help," she says.

Mom speaks softly to the cat.

"Hello there," she says.

"We are here to help."

The cat listens to Mom.
It stays on the low roof.
Its ears move a little.

Mom brings a sturdy box.
She brings some cat food, too.
Mia watches her carefully.

Mom puts the food on the ground.
She sets it near the shed.
The cat can smell it.

Mia stays back with Max.
They give the cat some room.
Mom waits nearby.

Max sits quietly on the grass.
His tail moves slowly.
Mia gives him a gentle pat.

The cat smells the food.
It looks down at the ground.
"Meow," it says.

The cat moves to the roof edge.

It walks very carefully.

Mom watches from below.

Mom waits near the shed.
She keeps her voice calm.
"Take your time," she says.

Mia watches the little cat.

"You can do it," she says.

Max stays beside her.

The cat finds a low way down.
It looks at the sturdy box.
Then it takes a careful step.

The cat steps onto the box.
It balances for a moment.
Mom stays close by.

The cat steps onto the grass.
Now all four paws are down.
"You did it!" says Mia.

Mia smiles at the cat.
"You are safe now," she says.
Mom smiles, too.

The cat eats some food.

It takes little bites.

Mia watches from a distance.

Mia gives the cat room.
She does not rush toward it.
Max waits quietly with her.

Mom brings some water.

She puts it near the cat.

The cat has a drink.

Max watches the cat calmly.

His tail moves slowly.

Mia gives him a pat.

"Thank you, Mom," says Mia.
"You helped the cat."
Mom gives Mia a smile.

Mom looks at the cat's collar.
There is a tag on it.
"This cat has a home," she says.

The cat sits on the grass.

It looks calm and safe.

Mia smiles at it.

The family is happy.

The little cat is down.

Everyone helped by staying calm.

The cat walks along the path.
Mom reads the tag and helps the cat get back home.

Mia waves to the cat.

"Goodbye, little cat!" she says.

The cat gives a little meow.

Max wags his tail.

He watches the cat go.

Then he looks up at Mia.

Mia and Mom walk together.

Max trots beside them.

The garden is peaceful again.
